

MOMENTUM

The pursuit of power and speed at Brooklands created a momentum all of its own, and helped to fuel an unstoppable advance in both automotive and aviation technology. And the mood driving it, known as the 'Spirit of Brooklands', came to symbolise the ambition and optimism of an era.

Excellent connectivity by road, rail and air is vital for any headquarters office. Velocity is only a few minutes away from Junction 10 of the M25 (3.5 miles) and 11 (4.5 miles), lies close to the A3, and London is only a 34-minute train journey away from nearby Weybridge. The development is well placed for Heathrow too, at a distance of just 12 miles.
